

Monte 6 L. H. 1831

Handwritten text in Italian, appearing to be a letter or a report. The text is dense and somewhat illegible due to the cursive script and fading. It begins with "Monte 6 L. H. 1831" at the top. The main body of text discusses various matters, possibly related to a project or a business deal, mentioning terms like "progetto", "opera", "costo", and "beneficio". The handwriting is very close together, and some words are difficult to decipher. The text ends with a signature or name at the bottom, which is also partially illegible.
